FAKE AGENT CHECKLIST

9 red flags to check before you pay anyone, sign anything or travel anywhere.

Every year, young players and families lose money to people who promise trials, clubs and visas. A real licensed agent never sells you a trial. Use this list before you trust anyone, including us.

9 RED FLAGS

1 He asks for money for a trial
Any payment connected to a trial is forbidden by FIFA (RSTP art. 19ter). "Registration", "dossier" or "trial fees" are the same thing.

2 He cannot show a FIFA licence number
Ask for the number and check it in the official FIFA list of licensed football agents on inside.fifa.com.

3 He guarantees a trial, a club or a contract
Nobody can guarantee a club decision. Only the club decides.

4 He wants you to pay travel, visa or hotel to him personally
When a club invites a player, the club organises or covers the trial costs. Never send money to a private account.

5 There is no club invitation you can verify
A real invitation comes on club letterhead. Call or email the club yourself, using contacts from the club's official website.

6 No written contract, or no copy for you
A representation agreement must be in writing, signed by both sides, maximum 2 years. You keep a copy.

7 He contacts a minor without the parents
For players under 18, agents need written parental consent, and the parents (or legal guardian) sign the agreement with the player.

8 He asks a fee for a minor
FIFA forbids agent fees for minors, except when the minor signs a professional contract.

9 He pressures you: "decide today"
"Only 2 places left", "leave tomorrow", "keep it secret from your family": real football does not work like this.

WHAT A REAL AGENT DOES

- ✔ Gives his FIFA licence number without hesitation
- ✔ Signs a written agreement and gives you a copy
- ✔ Never asks for money for a trial
- ✔ Involves the parents for every minor
- ✔ Lets you verify everything with the club
